

Health Equity Narrative Infrastructure Project

Narrative Illustrations

All people have inherent value and are worthy of dignity,
respect, and love.

We can create a world where we all have what we need to thrive.

Health means the collective wellbeing of all living beings and the Earth. We recognize and embrace that we are connected and linked to one another.

We value and respect diverse forms of knowledge and skills to solve problems
together.

We acknowledge,
repair, and heal
from past and
current harms of systems of oppression.

We center the experiences, wisdom, knowledge, and leadership of people who are, and have historically been, most impacted by systems of oppression.

All people and communities shape their future through an active, accessible, and participatory democracy.

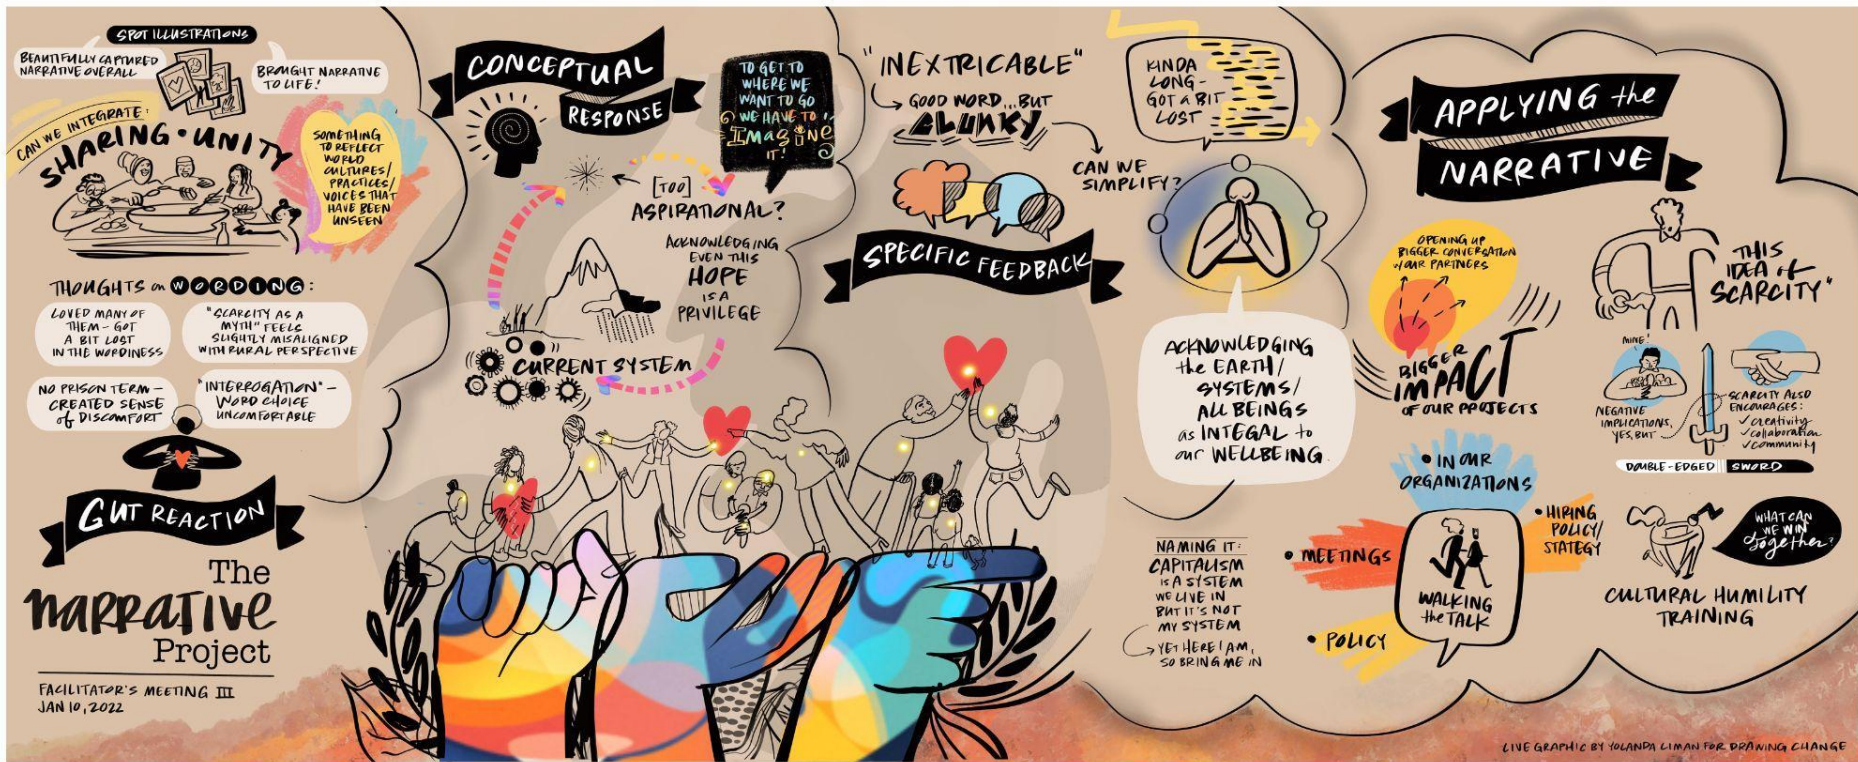

Public infrastructure and social systems nurture collective wellbeing and help create the conditions where everyone can thrive.

We have the power
and knowledge to build a transformed
and sustainable
future.
